Introduction

Environmental Studies 4 is a completely revised edition of the previous book. This book is written to meet the requirements of the Environmental Studies syllabus in the National Curriculum.

This textbook consists of 5 units which are divided into different topics. Each topic includes information and activities for the students. Lessons and activities are organized so that teachers will be able to continuously assess student performance while they carry out activities included in the textbook.

Teachers can give alternative activities if the objective of the lesson can be achieved. Most lessons in this book are activity based. The students need to do a lot of hands on activities. The text and the activities need to be explained clearly before the students are asked to do the tasks.
